

CUT TO:

30 INT. VEDA'S HOUSE - NIGHT

We hear someone's steady breath in the dark, the jingle of keys and some barely audible whispers. Someone opens the door stealthily; three men tip-toe in. They go to the bedside. One of them switches off the fan, another pulls out a knife and a lighter. We hear slurping and licking noises. VEDA, in his 20s, wakes up. The lights are turned on, three people scream "Happy Birthday raa Mama". VEDA stares at them for five whole seconds, blinking, trying to make sense of the situation. One of the three is BHANU, his roommate, wearing torn clothes, with an empty bottle of whiskey in his hand.

VEDA
Naa birthday aypoyi six months
ayyindhi

BHANU
Nee chetha cake cut cheyisthe maa celebrations aipoyinatte.

VISHAL, also in his 20s, is wearing a baby sling (without a baby) across his chest.

VISHAL
Mamma idhigo chaaku, adhigo cake-u cut chey.

VEDA looks at VISHAL and asks

VEDA Veedevadura?

BHANU
Naa best friend raa...

VEDA Paerenti?

BHANU calmly turns to VISHAL and asks

BHANU Paerenti mama?

VISHAL
VISHAL raa

BHANU
Aha, VISHAL gadu. Nuvvu koye.